What are Your Words?

“Hi there! I haven’t met you yet! My name is Ari. My words are impatient, bouncy, excited, nervous, colorful, and hopeful.”

Our words can be feelings like:

happy, confused, angry, or joyful

AND

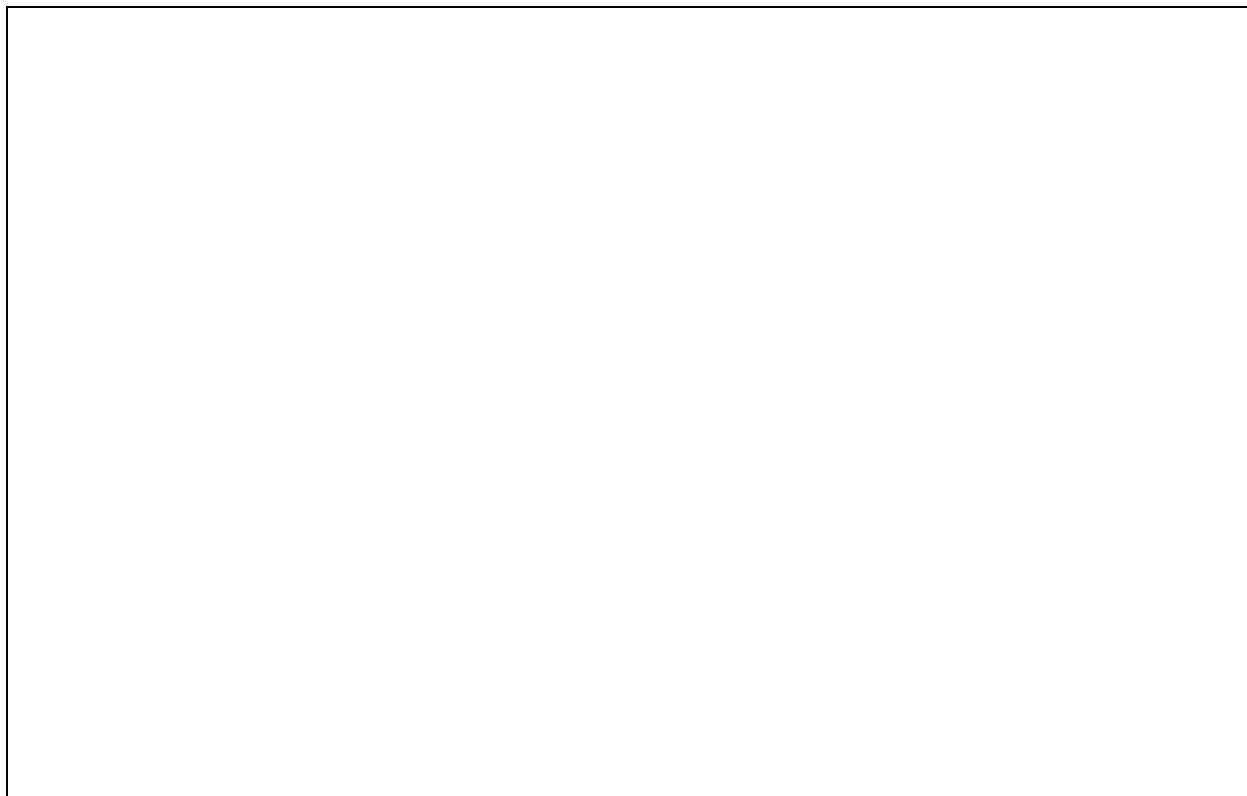

Our words can be descriptive words like:

Athletic, gardener, neighbor, or teacher.

Use the next page to write or draw your words.

My Words

What are Your Pronouns?

“Sometimes I know my words right away. Other times, I have to think about my words.” Sometimes Ari changes pronouns, “And that’s okay because they’re my words.”

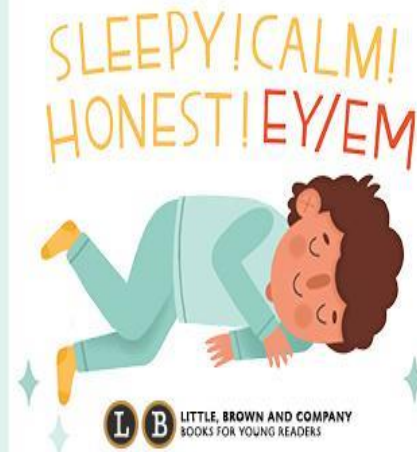

Pronouns

she/her	they/them
ey/em	ze/zir
he/him	xe/xir

Sometimes I know my words right away.

Sometimes I have to try my words out.

Today My Pronouns are:

Use the space below to write or draw the pronouns that feel right for you today.

A large, empty rectangular box with a thin black border, intended for the user to write or draw their pronouns.

Gentle and Respectful Way to Ask Everyone Their Pronouns

Ari told us that some words just don't feel right. They feel tight or itchy. They don't feel good at that moment. It is important for us to ask all people which pronouns they would like us to use.

Here are some ways you might want to try to ask people their pronouns.

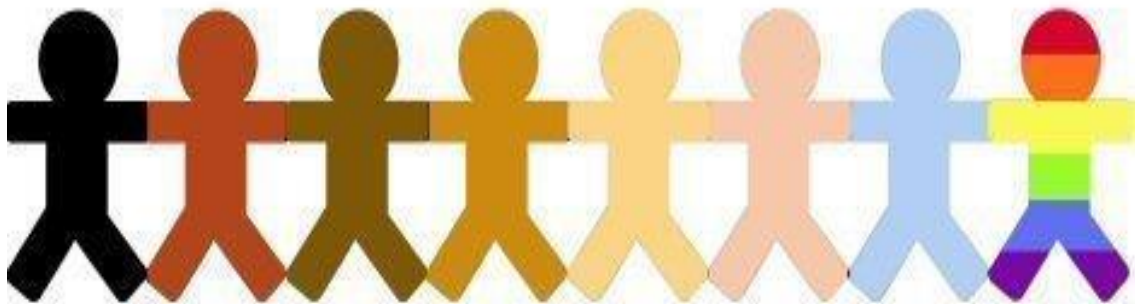

- What pronouns do you prefer me to use?
- What are your pronouns?
- Are there pronouns you want me to use for this context?

(Sometimes people will use certain pronouns at work that they might not use elsewhere. they might be protective of their identity in certain places.)
